Pertinent pointers identified

1. Students need more chances to discover and show their talents.
2. The event should keep encouraging students to interact and work together.
3. The good planning and organization used in this event should be followed in future events.
4. Activities should continue to support the overall growth of students, not just reading and writing skills.

Action taken

1. Enhanced cultural and skill-based components by including more diverse, interactive, and experiential activities to broaden students' perspectives and abilities.
2. Created additional platforms to identify and showcase student talents, including structured opportunities for performance and creativity.
3. Strengthened social interaction by incorporating more group-based, collaborative, and engaging tasks in future events.
4. Documented and retained effective organizational practices from this event to maintain quality planning and execution going forward.
5. Promoted holistic student development by integrating activities that build communication, teamwork, problem-solving, and other life skills beyond academics.
